FRIDAY, JANUARY 8, 1915

What the council would like to know is whether ex-almorant Mayor Houghton of the city of Sherbrooke, and if so where is the deed.

Medicine Hat is disturbing the stillness of the speculative atmosphere with a story of a gold rush. But not to an extent that would justify anyone throwing up a steady job for the chance of marketing a claim in the gold belt.

Mayor Henry has revived the proposal to appoint a comptroller of finance. The business of the comptroller would be to see that the city owed an account before the bill was paid. It would seem to be a good idea to have some one on that job.

If this year's council can provide for carrying on the city's business with less than last year's estimates, there was no reason why last year's council could not have cut the actual expenditure a half million dollars below its own estimates.

Last year the unemployed in the city were in the majority who did not reside here but who drifted in during the fall from railway camps and other places where they had been employed during the summer, went through their wages and then raised the cry that they must starve or steal. This year the picture is falling up on the man who lives in the city, has a family to support and in many cases—struggling to pay for a home. The city was under no particular obligation last year to feed the non-resident who had squandered his summer's wages and brought himself to want. The city has a distinct obligation to help those of its own citizens who are this year without means through no fault of their own but simply because employment has been scarce and is scarce. This problem is vastly more difficult to deal with than that of last year, because the man who has been used to standing idly by hesitates to make known his need of assistance. But, however difficult, it is a problem that must be dealt with effectively. Women and children must not be allowed to want because husbands and fathers do not. The city that they are "up against it." Last year prudence required that we look candidly into the doer's of those who demand help through lack of violence. This year prudence requires that we search out the cases where help is needed and do not willingly admitted.

The annual financial survey of the Toronto Globe, while making full recognition of the adverse conditions Canada experienced this year, is written in a decidedly optimistic vein. The substance of the survey seems to be that the worst is past, and that with a judicious management we may look forward with confidence to a year betterment. The opening paragraph of the review follows:

"Upon the eve of the most trying experience which will come to us through the war—the sea-son when the debt-paying power is at its ebb—there is reason for much courage and hopefulness."

"Financial and commercial Canada stood the shock of last year's winter without flinching and without panic. At the end of five months we find ourselves becoming adjusted to conditions new in the world's history, reasonably proud of our part in the past, and sure of the future. We have attained a rare level of stable and confident outlook upon a new stage of the national life and with the conviction that whatever reverses the development of the country sustain we will ultimately overcome the stronger for the ordeal."

Tammany politics produce Tammany results; wherever tried. The Dominion treasury is as empty as that of the city of Edmonton.

It is possible for a city council to meet for the transaction of civic business without violating the rules of civility and abusing the people who pay the taxes. It has been so in Edmonton.

Gun-boats are reported to be plying on the outer stretches of the Vista. Yet they claim to be having cold weather in that country. Apparently it is the kind of cold that produces suffering out of proportion to the degrees of frost.

B. C. depositors of the defunct Dominion Trust Co. want the Provincial Government—that is the public of B. C.—to pay their losses. The government has taken a while to think over the proposition, including no doubt the number, political leanings and influence of the depositors.

The Saskatchewan council has "accused to the request" of the police commission for a judicial inquiry into charges against detective Springer and Reeves. If after this lapse of time evidence is found to substantiate the charges the gentlemen concerned will be convicted of being crooks.

There is nothing in law for hiding citizens of the U. S. to sell copper and other things necessary in warfare to Germany or any other country with which the United States is not at war.

The profits in supplying these things to Germany and its allies would be proportionately the same as those could be delivered. If Britain could be bluffed into foregoing its right to search ships for consignments of contraband goods or to relaxing vigilance, the chances of carrying on this immensely profitable trade would be proportionately the same.

It has been suggested that the "note" sent to Britain a few weeks ago, protesting against the long delay of ships while being searched for hidden contraband, was instigated by dealers in the long delay of ships while being sought to use the moral power of the U. S. as a club to intimidate Britain into either foregoing its right of search or relaxing the thoroughness of the searching operations. If these were the instigators of the protest they are probably now regretting their extension into international politics. President Wilson's offer to give government certificates of character to ships loaded under government supervision, puts such dealers in a good deal poorer position than they were before the offer was made.

Many of its allies with war materials at fancy prices. Hitherto the difficulty has been to get the shipments through. Now the difficulty will be greater than before; and at the same time a new danger, because the offer is based upon them—those bringing their war materials aboard at all unless definitely consigned to the government.

When ships can have government certificates for the asking, ships which load without government inspection will naturally excite suspicion, their departure will be reported, and special precautions made to intercept them. Dealers in non-contraband goods, of course, refuse to ship by vessels certain of delay and liable to seizure. The contraband dealer will thus be obliged to charter ships and load them entirely with his forbidden wares—which will mean a special inspection by the British and French warships—or resort to more complicated means of smuggling them through in small boats. If he has had to adopt heretofore, if it was really the U. S. contraband dealer who instigated government action in the matter of delayed cargoes, he seems to have about instigated himself out of business.

DRIVEN FROM HOUSE BY FIRE
A fire in the house of a hardware store in the business district of the city, destroyed the house and the goods in it, and drove the owner and his family from their home.

CITY PUBLICITY.

The newspaper is the voice and mirror of the city.

It gives the city its best and widest publicity. It reaches further, faster, longer, is given more attention and is therefore more effective than any other means or medium of publicity.

The investor either in interest bearing securities, in real estate, or in commercial or industrial enterprise has his attention attracted and his confidence inspired by the newspaper—by what it says by what it looks like, by what the business men of the city say through its advertising columns from day to day, from week to week and from month to month.

Edmonton needs publicity, and must depend for it on its newspapers.

The newspaper advertiser is paying out his money for publicity that helps the city as well as himself.

The advertiser helps to support the paper to the benefit of the reader, therefore the reader in return is interested should be the dealer who advertises in the newspaper in preference to the dealer who either does not advertise at all or who prefers to spend his money for publicity in some other form which is sure will leave him no one but himself.

The city and every interest in it needs publicity at the present time. The interest of every citizen in that the means of publicity should be strengthened as much as possible. Every one reads the newspaper, and every one who reads it can help the publicity campaign by giving that preference in patronage to the newspaper advertiser.

Every one who reads the newspaper should be the dealer who advertises in the newspaper in preference to the dealer who either does not advertise at all or who prefers to spend his money for publicity in some other form which is sure will leave him no one but himself.

BRITISH REPLY TO U. S. NOTE IS CONCILIATORY

Great Britain Anxious to Avert Delay to American Shipping

QUESTION OF PURCHASE OF GERMAN VESSELS

If Such Are Used in South American Trade only Is No Objection

London, Jan. 7. (4:30 A.M.)—The reply of Great Britain to the American note regarding international American shipping, it is said in well informed circles, is conciliatory in tone and shows a disposition on the part of England to do everything within reason to avert delay to American shipping. It is said that the British government is anxious to avert delay to American shipping, and is willing to do so by purchasing German vessels.

TO THE BUYING PUBLIC OF EDMONTON

I have purchased the stock of Hamilton-Milne Company, Limited, and wish to convert it into cash to make ready for new lines which I will purchase for my spring business. I have been with this firm over five years as a partner to the business. I think I know what the trade demands. After the sale is completed I will spend about a month in the Eastern market, where I will purchase a brand new stock. I am now quoting prices which will make competitors stand aghast and should set the whole city of Edmonton in an uproar.

Yours sincerely,

JOE LONEY

Last Night's Game at 'Peg Produced Thrilling Finish

SENIOR HOCKEY LEAGUE SEASON OPENS AT SOUTH SIDE RINK TODAY

Albertas and Edmonton Hockey Club Clash at 8:30 p.m.—Both Teams Will be at Full Strength and Have Been Specially Groomed For Tonight's Game—Steele Will Play on the Edmonton Defence and Last Year's Eskimo Forward Line Will be Intact

LINE-UP FOR TONIGHT'S SENIOR GAME.

Red-blooded Edmontonians who delight in witnessing a hockey game between two evenly-matched teams, should show nothing to keep them away from tonight's contest at the South Side rink. The opening game of the Edmonton district, Senior A.H.A., brings together two teams who are a melody of last year's Edmonton Defence and last year's Eskimo Forward Line. The Edmonton hockey club will line up the Eskimos of 1914-15. The rivalry which flourished between the two teams last year as well as this year, will be a hard-fought affair as both teams realize the desirability of getting the jump on their opponents for the playoffs. Several of the Edmonton district, fans who are experienced hockey players, are fair hitting with one arm, two, three, and four, and are not afraid to take the battle of the year. The game is of great interest to the fans, and the appointment as both teams state they are out to play. The game will keep away from the penalty bench.

ESKIMOS LOST THREE STRAIGHT PERIODS
It is only by playing clean, fast and legitimate hockey that the South Side rink can be a success. The fans and the Alberta and Edmonton teams, who are not afraid to check, and cut out the fans, will realize the league name. The game is of great interest to the fans, and the appointment as both teams state they are out to play. The game will keep away from the penalty bench.

NOTTINGHAM CRICKET CAPTAIN, A. O. JONES, DIES FROM A CHILL
By Bulletin Leased Wire.
LONDON, Jan. 7.—A. O. Jones, captain of the Nottinghamshire County Cricket eleven, died at the residence of his brother at Dunstable, recently after a severe cold. Jones had suffered from a severe cold contracted in Australia on his visit there with the M.C.C. team. Last year he caught a severe chill when playing at Old Trafford and although he turned out for Nottinghamshire in the earlier matches of the past season he was never really well. An interval of rest produced an improvement and his friends encouraged him to play. He would recover but after playing against Hampshire at Southampton on January 6 he again broke down.

THREE GAMES IN DIVISION OF ALTA. LEAGUE

Crescents and Bulletin Team Take Flip Into Cellar—Close Race For First

Three games were played in the local junior division of the A.H.A. last night, two at Diamond Park and the other at the South Side. The teams met pretty much to form, and the result shows that the Beavers, Newells, and the Bulletin team are evenly matched, and that the Beavers and the Bulletin team are evenly matched, and that the Beavers and the Bulletin team are evenly matched.

As was expected the Beavers defeated the Bulletin team in the first half of the Diamond Park doubleheader, the Beavers leading 2-1. The Bulletin team, however, won the second half, the Beavers leading 2-1. The Bulletin team, however, won the second half, the Beavers leading 2-1.

MIKE GIBBONS CLASSES AS BEST MAN IN MIDDLEWEIGHT DIVISION

Robert Edgren, Famous New York Boxing Expert, Says Gibbons Could Follow Ketchell's Example and Fight Heavyweights—Not so Aggressive as the Lamented Stanley But Possesses Remarkable Skill

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—It's a long shot, says New York boxing expert Robert Edgren, but he thinks Mike Gibbons is the best man in the middleweight division. Gibbons is a long, lanky fellow, but he has a good chin and a good heart. He is a good fighter, and he is a good man. He is a good fighter, and he is a good man.
